HAS NO FEAR FOR SUCCESS OF REPUBLICANS IN THIS COUNTY

Mr. Tener Speaks Encouragingly On Outlook At This Time.

SCORES CANDIDATE FISH

Prohibition Candidate Is Making Statements Without Any Investigation.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 21.—John K. Tener, of Charleroi, candidate for Congress in the Twenty-fourth district, was in Pittsburg today on business. He spoke encouragingly of the outlook for the success of the Republican ticket in Washington, Beaver and Lawrence counties, and incidently paid his respects in strong terms to Rev. Frank Fish, his opponent on the Prohibition ticket. Rev. Mr. Fish is the pastor of a church in Claysville, Washington county, and for a month he has spent each day working in the interest of his own candidacy. There was every evidence that Mr. Tener was not worried over the politicalministers efforts, as in his own county, Washington, the Prohibition vote is about 600, while the Republican vote averages about 11,000.

By those who reside in Washington it is believed tha Congressman E. F. Acheson is quietly assisting Fish in an attempt to injure the Republican majority to induce the people to believe that without his assistance the present campaign in that county will be a dismal failure. Mr. Tener led Mr. Acheson by over 5,700 in the district.

"I see no reason why the Twenty-fourth district will not give a large Republican majority," said Mr. Tener. The indications from Washington, Beaver and Lawrence counties are that there is almost perfect harmony, and those interested in the success of the party are working with energy and enthusiasm. The voters seem to be satisfied that their interests will be best conserved by a continuance of the Republican policies.

"So far the only unpleasant feature of the campaign in my district has been the undignified efforts of the candidate for congress of the Prohibition party to attract attention to himself through unwarranted and unjustifiable misrepresentations. Many of his statements are as untruthful as they are absurd. Up to the present I have refrained from saying anything along this line, hoping that the candidate would make such investigation as would convince him that he was being misled and misinformed. My lifelong respect for his vocation led me to conclude that he would very soon at least attempt to ascertain the truth. His failure to do so is evidence of either a willful determination to deceive the voters or his reliance upon sources of information that is self interested, vindictive and unworthy of confidence.

"Previous to the last primary election the people of the Twenty-fourth district were furnished with many such canards from the same source. There is a marked similarity between those circulated then and those now being given publicity by the Prohibition candidate. One of these statements, which is not only false but contrary to reason is that a $100,000 corruption fund was used to secure my nomination. Many other utterances to which my friends have called my attention are also without a semblance of the truth. The voters were not deceived by such rot in April, and my confidence in their intelligence is such that I do not believe that they are being deceived at this time."

Sheriff Receives Unique Package

A home made envelope or shipping case arrived in an afternoon mail at the sheriff's office yesterday. It was consigned to one Signora Rocco, Box No. 75, Washington and came from Sunny Italy. Sheriff Murphy had no guest in the jail by that name and upon investigation it was learned that what is thought to have been a photograph, was delivered at the jail by mistake. Rocco is a brother, it is said, of Rocco Rocco, the Black Hand artist, who thanked the jury when he was found guilty of murder in the first degree at New Castle last week.

The case in which the supposed photograph was mailed was a very crude one. The outside cardboard measured probably 15 inches by 10 and was stitched with a heavy twine around three edges. The only thing that closed the case was a white ribbon run through two holes in the cardboard in the center. The address was almost obliterated and one would cease to marvel at a $1 bill with a shipping tag attached traveling safely across the United States, if the address on the bulky parcel received yesterday indicated that its destination was Washington, Pa.

The package was returned to the mail carrier.

BANKER REZY IS LODGED IN JAIL AT UNIONTOWN

Uniontown, Pa., Sept. 21.—William de Rezy, who was arrested in Cincinnati and brought to Uniontown to jail, is charged with conspiracy and embezzlement in connection with the failure of the foreign bank of Peter Rutsek, who had banks in Uniontown, Connellsville and Brownsville. All three banks closed and Rutsek fled to Europe and has not been apprehended, and it is asserted that foreigners are out $70,000 from the failure of the three banks.

It is believed that Rezy will be able to furnish valuable information about the conduct of Rutsek's banking affairs and especially to tell what became of the money that was supposed to be on deposit in the Uniontown bank of which Rezy was manager. After Rezy left, the safe in the bank here was drilled open by officers and only $1.01 was found.

Rezy was arrested early in July in Jersey City, N. J., but released before Fayette county officers could get him. He then went to Cleveland, thence to Cincinnati where he secured work. He was arrested, but made a determined fight to prevent his return to Fayette county, contending that he could not get a fair trial here. The Ohio officers, however, turned him over to Sheriff P. A. Johns of Uniontown.

Created Disturbance.

Tony Matts, James Matts, James Dofye and Dominic Rosie were arrested for creating a disturbance along the streets on their way home from work at the factory. They will be given hearings later before Burgess Hott.

TWO MEN KILLED ON THE RAILROAD

Walking From Donora To Monongahela When They Are Caught.

While walking home from Donora after a fruitless quest for work Frank Furica of Monongahela and Manquilla Cappelli of Charleroi were struck by a fast south bound freight last night near Black Diamond and instantly killed. Both bodies were badly mangled. One of the men uttered a cry and the engineer realized that some person had been struck. The train was stopped and the mangled forms in which life was extinct were brought to Monongahela where they were identified by their friends and prepared for burial. Deputy Coroner Harry Scurfield of Monongahela viewed the bodies. The latter was brought to Reeves and Reeves Undertaking rooms at this place.

Furica has resided in Monongahela for a number of years and was about 29 years of age. A wife and two children survive. Cappelli lives in Charleroi where he is survived by a wife and three children. He was about 32 years of age. Both are Italians and are stonemasons and bricklayers.

Yesterday morning they searched all over Monongahela for employment but finding nothing walked to Donora in search of work and were returning when the fatal accident occurred.

Both are well connected and prominent in the Italian fraternal orders.

MONESSEN DISORDERLY HOUSES MUST GO

"Disorderly houses must go" said Burgess Shutterly of Monessen today in discussing last night's raids by the police force. Such places will not be tolerated in the boro limits and the police have orders from the chief executive to raid every house against which evidence can be secured. Burgess Shutterly has not only refused to license such places but he has likewise refused to be blind to their existence and tolerate them under the plea of ignorance of their presence.

He wants them ferreted out and the police know it. He intends to see that the police act on that knowledge. "Let those who know no better criticise as they will for the existence of disorderly houses outside of the boro limits" said the burgess in conclusion. "In those cases I have no jurisdiction. In the other cases I have and I propose to see that the town is kept clean."

Last night two alleged disorderly houses conducted by colored people, were raided, one on Rostraver street and one on Park Way. Seven men and three women were arrested and they will be given hearings this evening.—Monessen Independent.

LOCK SCHOOLS PICNIC AT ELDORA PARK

North Charleroi, Sept. 21.—On last Thursday, the schools were given a day's outing at Eldora park. All necessary arrangement for a good time at the park, had been previously made by Tom P. Sloan, manager of Eldora park; so at 9:30 prompt, the schools, numbering some 200 pupils, together with well laden lunch baskets, were assembled at Lock View station, and were conveyed in two special cars to the picnic grounds. The day was ideal for a good time and no pains was spared by the park management, to make the day a continuous round of pleasure for the boys and girls. Just before lunch time, the merry party was joined by half as many patrons and friends of the schools, and at the noon hour, the picnicers grouped themselves about the well-filled baskets and very much enjoyed the repast in the woods.

Not the slightest accident occured to mar the day's pleasure. In the early evening the cars returned to take the children home. Three cheers for the fellow-townsmen, Tom P. Sloan, were given and all voted the day a pleasure long to be remembered.

Council Decides To Pave Block On Lincoln Avenue

Called Meeting Last Night And Business Of Interest Transacted --Final Estimate Is Accepted.

A called meeting of council was held last night and a few matters of interest taken up. Among these was that of paving Lincoln avenue from First street to Second street, thus connecting up the paving work of Washington avenue at second street with that of Lincoln avenue at First street. This business was talked over to some extent before a motion was made to have an ordinance prepared, and the contract let, but the move was unanimous, the matter being left in the hands of the ordnance committee. This piece of work is one much needed, to complete the section of unpaved street between the brickwork on Washington avenue which ends at Second street, and Lincoln avenue extension. When the paving is completed, if everything goes through without a hitch, it will make Washington avenue one of the most beautiful of the town.

The final estimate of the paving of Lincoln avenue, from First street to Lincoln avenue extension was read and on motion accepted. The total amount was $2,650.87. A warrant for the sum of $1,899.10, the amount due the contractors was ordered drawn of the treasurer. Hastings, Piper and Owens were the contractors on this piece of work and did a very nice job. It was only very recently finished.

COURT GRANTS LICENSE TRANSFER

Hearing Yesterday In Case Of Central Hotel.

Before Judge McIlvaine was heard yesterday morning the application of Edward Haley, for transfer of his liquor license as the Central hotel, of Rosece to William Coulson, of Donora. There was no opposition presented to the transfer and the court took the matter under advisement and will announce a decision later.

It will be remembered that Mr. Haley applied for a transfer recently and was refused by the court, it having been shown at the hearing that the sale of the property depended upon Mr. Haley being successful in having the license transferred to Mr. Coulson. This fact having been brought out the transfer was refused.

The Haley place then went into the hands of the sheriff and was closed up. Later the sale of the property to Mr. Coulson was arranged and the hotel was reopened. The deed for the transfer was put on record last week the consideration being $37,500.

Hearing Of Myers Of Donora Hotel

A hearing was held on the petition of Henry Meyer for the transfer of the license of Hotel Donora to his son, Frank H. Meyer. The transfer was granted.

At the last license court the license was granted in the name of Henry Meyer and Frank H. Meyer. The father states in his petition that he has sold his interest to his son and withdrawn from the firm, with the intention of leaving Washington county.

MINING COAL AT MARIANNA

Excellent progress is being made at the new shaft at Marianna and between 400 and 500 tons of coal are being mined daily from the new workings. This week this output will be increased to over 500 tons. At the present time 30 entries are being driven, and next this number will be increased to 36.

Twelve of the brick houses now in course of construction will be completed within four weeks, which will permit the company to give increased accommodations to their officials.

Notice.

All goods left at my place over sixty days will be sold for charges, if not called for in ten days from date.

MACHINE WILL MINE AND DIG

Invention Will Be a Big Factor In Mining Operations.

With a machine that can dig and load a ton of coal a minute the coal mining industry of the world seems about to be revolutionized by the invention of a Pittsburg man, H. A. Kuhn, president of the Pittsburg and Westmoreland Coal company and allied corporations, which own and are operating a 280,000-acre tract in Westmoreland and Washington counties.

Some idea of what this means can be determined by companies with the fact that an individual miner, with the best methods hitherto in use, can turn out only from six to 10 tons a day. The cost of mining also is greatly reduced by the new machine. Another very important feature is that it does away with the use of explosives.

Although this machine has been in use in the Shoenberger mine of the company, three miles below Monongahela City, for the past six months, it has been inspected by only about 10 persons outside of the inventor and those operating it. By the new method a large percentage of the operatives will be mechanical engineers.

Operated Upon For Blood Poisoning

Emory Bunkle, the seven year old son of E. J. Bunkle of Monessen was operated upon for a serious case of blood poisoning yesterday. The lad contracted the disease through his desire to see the prize fight in the opera house here about two weeks ago. He climbed to a window sill and was creeping along toward an eye hole when his leg was caught by a piece of broken glass and a deep gash cut. This rapidly developed into blood poison.

TRANSFERED YESTERDAY

Yesterday the pioneer real estate agency of Charleroi changed hands when Charles R. True, a prominent Beallsville man took charge of the business of Ed C. Drum, on Fallowfield avenue, the transaction having been closed recently. The consideration is not given.

The agency is the first ever located in this place although it has passed through a number of person's hands. The men who started the agency were Clark and McKean. It passed into the hands of A. C. McKean who held it for several years, finally disposing of the business to McCloskey and Company who in turn sold it to Mr. Drum.

Mr. True is a business man of experience, having been in the Mercantile business at Beallsville for several years. He will make few changes.

A man may be fifty seven varieties of fool over a girl and still be able to transact business.

Tan, just tan, seems to have great popularity as a bathing costume.

It has got so that you can't even pour oil upon the troubled water without paying tribute to John D.

It is queer, but people who are always wanting to be the whole thing are never willing to half try.

It is sometimes hard to differentiate between superstition and religion except in your own case.

The Great White Way is overcast with a Thespian gloom. It looks as if some of the actors will have to chop wood this winter.

Now that fainting is becoming the style again, beware of the girl that glances hastily over her shoulder to see if you are there before she does it.

Politeness may be carried to extremes, but it seldom does any serious damage.

It has been said that there are no baldheaded men in the asylums for the insane. We suspect this is true; at least, save for rare and unimportant exceptions. This an important thing for the anti-baldheads to speculate upon; it may well furnish them food for serious and earnest thought.

A Pittsburg man claims that it cost him $100,000 to get his wife. Doubtless the chef item of expense was getting rid of his other one.

The International Tuberculosis Conference which is about to meet at Philadelphia will be productive of much good, without doubt, but some of the tuberculosis editorials in the papers of the Quaker City are as bad as the disease.

Degeneracy in Boys.

There is certainly something wrong somewhere that so many boys of such tender years as 10 and and 12, have become criminals, daring and malicious. Charleroi has more than her share of boy desperadoes and we feel that someone is to blame. There is "toughs" and "toughs" in this town from the ages of 5 to 30 and over but the little fellows in deeds of malicious mischief and criminal acts completely eclipse their elder brothers. We are sorry enough to see degeneracy in either the man, youth, or wee chap but a great deal more grieved to notice the latter going beyond what members of the former two classes dare.

What is the cause of the unusual conditions existant here among so many of the young lads? Does it lie with the parents? Have the boys had the proper training? We suspect not, for surely if a boy is brought up properly he will not disobey his parents wishes and not deteriorate to the extent that some of the toddlers of Charleroi have.

The police and the local board of the Juvenile court cannot work very well towards stopping the work of the youngsters, for the ones who suffer hesitate as a general rule to appear against them, or take any action whatever concerning the matter. The parents also to keep their names out of the paper and with an idea of saving further trouble, oftentimes defend their degenerate offsprings by paying for all the damages which they do, and dismissing the matter from their thoughts, instead of using the old fashioned method of a stiff soled slipper, or strong hickory stick.

People Complain.

Complaint comes from Ninth and Tenth streets of hoodlums of that district disturbing the peace of residents day and night. It is said that boys of various ages keep the streets and alleys resounding with noise as they play games, using explosive epithets filthy in character, cursing one another in loud voices so that the good people of that neighborhood are shocked and incensed beyond degree. Sunday night on Long Alley, between Ninth and Tenth streets and along McKean and Fallowfield avenues it is said gangs of hoodlums throughout most of the night made things hideous, and rendered sleep for the residents well nigh impossible, by their noise and cursings as they abused one another. The people of Ninth and Tenth streets and on McKean and Fallowfield avenues between these places desire the police to investigate the matter and have the practice of the youngsters stopped.

An exchange reports that bankers and bank officials are opposed to the Democratic guarantee plank. So are the majority of other people, but the bank officials who favors it, would be advertising that he and his institution are to be trusted, and the man who is afraid to trust himself, has no right to ask other people to trust him with their money.

To Protect Property From Fires.

High officials of railroads in the Pittsburg district, that are experiencing difficulty on account of water shortage, are holding a series of meetings to arrange some plan where by the repair shops and locomotives can be kept in operation. In some cases it has been necessary to close repair shops entirely. The situation in the district is serious and railroad officials say that unless relief comes soon additional plants will be closed.

At the first meeting to discuss this matter it was decided to send special watchmen out along various roads to give warning in case fire breaks out. On account of the numerous forest fires that have been reported during the past few weeks the railroads are taking every precaution to prevent fires along their lines. The watchmen are to be stationed but a short distance apart and are instructed to notify the division superintendent in case of fire on the company's property or along the right of way.

Orders have been sent out by the Pennsylvania to see that the fire-fighting locomotives are equipped with all kinds of apparatus and the trainmen, who have been organized into companies, are drilled daily. To prevent heavy damage to the company's shops and terminal buildings in case of fire additional engines have been equipped with fire-fighting apparatus.

To Start Work Soon On New School Building

At a meeting of the school board of Monongahela last evening it was decided to let the contract for the foundation of the new Third ward school building immediately. The building will be a modern 12-room structure and will cost $52,000 when finished. As soon as the foundation is completed the contract for the building will be let and it will be pushed to a rapid completion as it is urgently needed. There are at present 1,302 pupils in school here and all of the rooms are crowded. Steps will be taken at once to procure another room for the primary pupils of the First and Second grades.

SPECIAL FEATURES AT STAR THIS WEEK

The program at the Star theatre is an exceptionally strong one. The act of Alvin and Knox, is a scream and to see it is to laugh. It is an amicable change from the ordinary acts offered in vaudeville.

Alvin's comedy is of the clean, long buble kind and he is ably assisted by Miss Knox, whose special costume and her clever acting, singing adds decidedly to the act. They make a clever, well balanced team and one well worth seeing. They present an entirely new song tonight entitled "Baby Doll," it is catchy and tuneful and sure to make a hit.

The act of Orville the premier equilibrist is one that is decidedly clever, he introduces novelty foot balancing that has never been seen here before.

The illusrtated song and moving pictures are as usual, good.

Fires Over 100,000 Acres.

Harrisburg, Sept. 21.—Reports to the State forestry department show that fires are raging over 100,000 acres of forest land in Clinton, Center, Union, Clearfield, Snyder, Lycoming, Mifflin, Tioga, Potter, Pike, Monroe and Schuylkill counties.

Fifteen thousand acres of State forest reserves have been burned. The State has 110 forest rangers and wardens at work, and local constables have drafted citizens into service as fire fighters, about 1,200 men in all being employed. The State police are searching for persons guilty of starting fires, and the department will offer rewards for information.

Thus far there have been no fires in the Mont Alto forest reserve or the big State nurseries in Bedford county. Rangers are patrolling the reserves in many places and allowing no one to enter.

Washington, Sept. 22.—Superintendent L. R. Crumrine spent the greater part of last week visiting the schools of Hopewell and Mt. Pleasant townships, and reports that a good begnning has been made. The teachers, with few excepticns, are greatly in earnest in their work. While there are features to be commended, there is some lack in the proper manner of imparting instruction, and also need more energy on the part of the teacher.

Monongahela, Sept. 21.—"Fluff," the little French poodle dog belonging to Mrs. Nettie Strouse, was attacked by a Great Dane, belonging to Prof. Grundhoefer, on Sunday, and badly injured. Monongahela, Sept. 21.—John Burbra had one leg amputated at the Memorial hospital today as a result of the member being fearfully crushed when Burbra was caught beneath a fall of slate in the Marianna mine.

A Popular Song of Today.

In the "Country Club," Jesse L. Lasky's unique vaudeville producton is now appearing in Greater New York, there is a song by George Spink that is making so great a hit that The New York Sunday World has secured the right to give it to its readers next Sunday. Words and music complete. George Spink, it will be remembered, wrote "Bill Simmons," one of the most popular of light songs. The song to be given with the next Sunday World is up to Mr Spink's best work.

Heavy Rains in South.

Heavy rains continue to fall in the southern states, but none of the precipitation seems to be able to reach this northern latitude. In Galveston, Tex., last week 10 inches of rain fell in 36 hours. If we only had some of that in this valley it would help some!

SKIN TORTURES

Thousands of wretched people are miserable—driven almost mad by the terrible itching and burning sensation of Eczema and other skin diseases, many imagine they are suffering from bad blood when as a matter of fact the blood has nothing to do with it. These awful tortures are caused by little germs that attack the skin externally, which can be rooted out in a hurry, leaving the skin clear, soft and healthy. Such misery now cleared away as surely as the sun shines above. Not merely attempted, not a matter of improvement merely, not a temporary relief—but a clearing of it all away absolutely and permanently.

THE D. D. D. PRESCRIPTION

a specific formula, put up in sealed bottle with authentic label, has proven to be the only certain cure for these diseases. Its record of cures is astonishing, amazing, almost miraculous. It is a liquid, used externally, non-greasy.

Cleansed within one month.

For a number of years my husband has been suffering with a terrible case of eczema. He had doctored with the best skin specialists in the city, but they could not even stop the itching. I was told by a friend of the D. D. D. treatment and began using it at once; the first few applications eased the itching, and in a month's time his flesh was as clear as could be.

Gregory's Fortune.

By Barry Preston.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

The candles in the thousands of Japanese lanterns which flooded the lawn with their soft light were burning low. Here and there one would sputter uncertainly and then go out, leaving a break in the long lines of various colored illumination.

The orchestra in its palm bordered pavilion played a final selection, after which the musicians put their instruments in the cases with businesslike finality. The crowd which an hour earlier had fairly swarmed the place was now thinning out to a few scattered groups. Already the gayly costumed young ladies at the various booths were beginning to put away their remaining wares, yawning openly as they wearily took account of stock and compared notes on the sales they had made.

The annual bazaar for the Home For Incurables always came to just such a stereotyped, successful ending.

Quite apart from the other loiterers, on a rustic bench beneath a towering maple, Peter Gregory watched the proceedings about him the while he smoked a contemplative cigarette. He had done his duty nobly. He had taken the many booths in order, permitting himself to be swindled at each and making prodigal purchases of useless things, which he promptly gave away.

One booth only he had not visited, and that was the one where, for the amazingly small sum of $1 you could have your horoscope cast, your past read and your future forecast by "Mlle. Nazro, Marchioness Egyptian Seer, First Appearance In America." If one were to believe the lurid poster just outside of the flap of the Graham children's lawn tent.

Gregory glanced at the tent in question and moved somewhat faster at

"YOU HAVE A RIVAL," SAID SHE.

the cigarette, as if he were endeavoring to steel his nerves for an ordeal. For certain reasons he had waited to have his fortune told, as the fortune teller should be quite alone. Even as he looked two stout, middle aged women, accompanied by a prosperous looking man, came laughingly out of the tent and made their way toward the street. Behind them Mlle. Nazro stood in the tent's entrance looking across the grounds.

Gregory tossed the cigarette aside, got to his feet and took a long breath. Then he marched sedately to the fortune teller's booth and removed his hat in a deferential salute.

"Am I too late to consult the future?" he asked.

The young woman before him smiled rather wearily, but with a certain well simulated professional welcome. She was a tall young woman, with a superb figure. Her blue eyes twinkled merrily. Her face was dyed an oriental tint with grease paint, and her lips were very red from the same reason. From beneath the dark wig that covered her head a single lock of blond hair strayed out rebelliously.

"You are rather late," she said, "but perhaps we can manage your future, or at least a part of it, before all the lights go out. Will you please come into the tent? Will you have it by the palm or the cards?" she asked as she seated herself before a small table gay with bright paper and tinsel.

"The cards, if you please. I think them much more reliable," said he gravely as he sat down opposite her.

She produced a deck of cards and pushed them toward him.

"Cut them, if you will," said she.

Gregory split the deck, and the girl turned the cards face up.

"Ah," she murmured as the deuce of hearts was displayed, "you are in love—very much in love!"

"Admitted," said he quickly.

He looked at her with such concentration that her eyes fell, and in her flurry she dropped some of the cards. Gregory picked them up and returned them to the table.

For a moment she manipulated the deck; then she tossed on to the table the jack of diamonds.

"You have a rival," said she, "a big, light man. He is very rich." And she laid the ten of diamonds beside the jack.

"Right again," said Gregory. "Mlle. Nazro, your insight or the cards, whichever it is, is positively uncanny. Now tell me more about the lady, please. Does she favor me or my rival?"

There was more manipulating of the deck, more cutting by Gregory, and the girl looked keenly at a card in her hand.

"Which does she seem to favor?" Gregory asked, leaning forward.

"You," the girl said simply.

With a sudden, swift movement Gregory caught one of the girl's hands in his own, but she drew it away, not without a certain hauteur.

"This is only according to the cards, please remember," she said in a low voice.

"Oh!" said Gregory contritely. "Forgive me. I thought—that is, I hoped"—

"And according to the cards," said the girl hurriedly in a very evident effort to cover her embarrassment, "the lady whom you love is dark."

She pushed the queen of clubs toward him.

For a long time Gregory looked at her steadily. Then a hint of a smile curved the corners of his mouth.

"Of course this is all according to the cards," he suggested.

There was a long pause.

"Not wholly," the girl confessed, her face turned from him.

"To what, then, are we indebted for the rest of it?" he asked.

"Oh, to—to intuition and—and to insight."

Gregory laughed outright. It was a ringing, contagious laugh. He caught up the queen of clubs and sealed her far out on to the lawn.

"Exit the dark lady," he said. "There never was one. The girl I—the girl who is everything to me is not dark," he ended, looking meaningly at the one blond lock that crept from beneath the wig.

The girl arose in some confusion.

"I'm—I'm very much afraid I can't tell you any more about the future," said she. "I think we'd best consider this sitting ended."

"Oh, no, indeed," Gregory declared pleasantly. "There's a lot more to be settled yet. That rival, for instance—how about him? What shall we do with him?"

There was a long silence.

"We've got to do something about the rival," Gregory maintained.

The girl picked up the jack of diamonds and the ten spot with it.

"If it's not the dark lady," she said in a very low voice, "the rival doesn't count—neither he nor his riches."

She tore the two cards in pieces and tossed them from her. In an instant Gregory was on his feet.

"Violet!" he cried. "Violet, you mean"—

"It was the cards," she said feebly.

"It was not," he declared flatly, springing to her side.

A half hour later as Gregory was leaving the grounds he encountered Tom Briggs.

"Going to take the car home, Peter?" the latter inquired, with a mystifying chuckle.

"Certainly," said Gregory. "What is there so funny about that?"

"Nothing," said Briggs, with another covert gurgle, "nothing whatever, only, Peter, as an old and trusted friend, I'd advise you to wash that bit of carmine paint off your chin before you go."

Value of an Automaton Face.

"When I first came to New York," confessed a girl art student, "I thought all the women had regular putty faces. It seemed to me I never saw such blank walls of expressionless faces. I would get into a street car and look about me and could not detect any sign that any one else knew I existed. Women looked right through me as if I were a pane of window glass. I soon found out, however, that an expressionless face is a woman's protection. It is not that New York women cannot look bright and interested; it is because they dare not show any friendliness in public. When I first came, being from a smaller city where every one knows every one else, I would get on a car in a lively manner, look about me, smile and study the people, just as I would do at home. I soon saw men returning my friendly looks with disagreeable stares. They naturally thought I was trying to start a flirtation. Several times I was followed as a penalty for my too interested manner, and I began to adopt the New York way. Now I go in many parts of the city acting as near like an automaton as I can, seeing no one, never expressing any interest or emotion in my face, and have learned the secret of going about this big city unmolested."—New York Times.

Poverty and Luxury.

Poverty and luxury—these are the diseases of our industrial regime, to the cure of which the Socialists offer their ineffectual remedy—ineffectual since the population of the United States is made up of 90,000,000 individuals, some of whom will be forever on the verge of bankruptcy, however great their income, and some frugal and always carrying their account on the right side of the balance sheet, however small their annual allotment of wealth.

Poverty and luxury are twin diseases sapping the life of society, the one destroying ambition by withholding sufficient nourishment to the body, the other rendering men worthless to society by a superabundance of the good things of life. Poverty is a disease not indigenous to our American soil. It is a plague brought in by immigrant ships from wornout Europe, and the patients are cured here by the thousands. So long as there remains an uncultivated acre of land anywhere in the Union there is no real cause for poverty nor any excuse for luxury while a foot of land is undeveloped.—J. T. Lincoln in Atlantic.

COMPANY A GETTING READY TO LEAVE

Captain Keller, of Co. A, has received orders governing the movement of his command for Philadelphia, but it is not known as yet the exact time of leaving. No doubt the company will leave Monongahela on Sunday morning, October 4, and return about Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

For the trip each man will be paid one dollar. This is something unusual as heretofore nothing was paid for such pleasure trips. The full dress blue uniforms will be worn, and it will mark the initial appearance of the officers in their new full dress uniforms of blue and gold. Much pleasure is anticipated by the members of the company, and considerable is being done in the vicinity of the armory toward preparing for the event.

It is thought all orders will be here and read to the men at the next drill on Friday evening.

Making More Than a Living

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the men who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon counts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a tidy interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than a living you are making now, and place the difference in this bank. Four per cent. intereet paid in savings department.

VOL. 9. No. 35 CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON CO., PA. TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1908 One Cent

HAS NO FEAR FOR SUCCESS OF REPUBLICANS IN THIS COUNTY

Mr. Tener Speaks Encouragingly On Outlook At This Time.

SCORES CANDIDATE FISH

Prohibition Candidate Is Making Statements Without Any Investigation.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 21.—John K. Tener, of Charleroi, candidate for Congress in the Twenty-fourth district, was in Pittsburg today on business. He spoke encouragingly of the outlook for the success of the Republican ticket in Washington, Beaver and Lawrence counties, and incidently paid his respects in strong terms to Rev. Frank Fish, his opponent on the Prohibition ticket. Rev. Mr. Fish is the pastor of a church in Claysville, Washington county, and for a month he has spent each day working in the interest of his own candidacy. There was every evidence that Mr. Tener was not worried over the politicalmoisters efforts, as in his own county, Washington, the Prohibition vote is about 600, while the Republican vote averages about 11,000.

By those who reside in Washington it is believed tha Congressman E. F. Acheson is quietly assisting Fish in an attempt to injure the Republican majority to induce the people to believe that without his assistance the present campaign in that county will be a dismal failure. Mr. Tener led Mr. Acheson by over 5,700 in the district.

"I see no reason why the Twenty-fourth district will not give a large Republican majority," said Mr. Tener. The indications from Washington, Beaver and Lawrence counties are that there is almost perfect harmony, and those interested in the success of the party are working with energy and enthusiasm. The voters seem to be satisfied that their interests will be best conserved by a continuance of the Republican policies.

"So far the only unpleasant feature of the campaign in my district has been the undignified efforts of the candidate for congress of the Prohibition party to attract attention to himself through unwarranted and unjustifiable misrepresentations. Many of his statements are as untruthful as they are absurd. Up to the present I have refrained from saying anything along this line, hoping that the candidate would make such investigation as would convince him that he was being misled and misinformed. My lifelong respect for his vocation led me to conclude that he would very soon at least attempt to ascertain the truth. His failure to do so is evidence of either a willful determination to deceive the voters or his reliance upon sources of information that is self interested, vindictive and unworthy of confidence.

"Previous to the last primary election the people of the Twenty-fourth district were furnished with many such canards from the same source. There is a marked similarity between those circulated then and those now being given publicity by the Prohibition candidate. One of these statements, which is not only false but contrary to reason is that a $100,000 corruption fund was used to secure my nomination. Many other utterances to which my friends have called my attention are also without a semblance of the truth. The voters were not deceived by such rot in April, and my confidence in their intelligence is such that I do not believe that they are being deceived at this time."

Sheriff Receives Unique Package

A home made envelope or shipping case arrived in an afternoon mail at the sheriff's office yesterday. It was consigned to one Signora Rocco, Box No. 75, Washington and came from Sunny Italy. Sheriff Murphy had no guest in the jail by that name and upon investigation it was learned that what is supposed to have been a photograph, was delivered at the jail by mistake. Rocco is a brother, it is said, of Rocco Rocco, the Black Hand artist, who thanked the jury when he was found guilty of murder in the first degree at New Castle last week.

The case in which the supposed photograph was mailed was a very crude one. The outside cardboard measured probably 15 inches by 10 and was stitched with a heavy twine around three edges. The only thing that closed the case was a white ribbon run through two holes in the cardboard in the center. The address was almost obliterated and one would cease to marvel at a $1 bill with a shipping tag attached traveling safely across the United States, if the address on the bulky parcel received yesterday indicated that its destination was Washington, Pa.

The package was returned to the mail carrier.

BANKER REZY IS LODGED IN JAIL AT UNIONTOWN

Uniontown, Pa., Sept. 21.—William de Rezy, who was arrested in Cincinnati and brought to Uniontown to jail, is charged with conspiracy and embezzlement in connection with the failure of the foreign bank of Peter Rutsek, who had banks in Uniontown, Connellsville and Brownsville. All three banks closed and Rutsek fled to Europe and has not been apprehended, and it is asserted that foreigners are out $70,000 from the failure of the three banks.

It is believed that Rezy will be able to furnish valuable information about the conduct of Rutsek's banking affairs and especially to tell what became of the money that was supposed to be on deposit in the Uniontown bank of which Rezy was manager. After Rezy left, the safe in the bank here was drilled open by officers and only $1.01 was found.

Rezy was arrested early in July in Jersey City, N. J., but released before Fayette county officers could get him. He then went to Cleveland, thence to Cincinnati where he secured work. He was arrested, but made a determined fight to prevent his return to Fayette county, contending that he could not get a fair trial here. The Ohio officers, however, turned him over to Sheriff P. A. Johns of Uniontown.

Created Disturbance.

Walking From Donora To Monongahela When They Are Caught.

While walking home from Donore after a fruitless quest for work Frank Furica of Monongahela and Manquilla Cappelli of Charleroi were struck by a fast south bound freight last night near Black Diamond and instantly killed. Both bodies were badly mangled. One of the men uttered a cry and the engineer realized that some person had been struck. The train was stopped and the mangled forms in which life was extinct were brought to Monongahela where they were identified by their friends and prepared for burial. Deputy Coroner Harry Scurfield of Monongahela viewed the bodies. The latter was brought to Reeves and Reeves Undertaking rooms at this place.

Furica has resided in Monongahela for a number of years and was about 29 years of age. A wife and two children survive. Cappelli lives in Charleroi where he is survived by a wife and three children. He was about 32 years of age. Both are Italians and are stonemasons and bricklayers.

Yesterday morning they searched all over Monongahela for employment but finding nothing walked to Donora in search of work and were returning when the fatal accident occurred.

Both are well connected and prominent in the Italian fraternal orders.

MONESSEN DISORDERLY HOUSES MUST GO

"Disorderly houses must go" said Burgess Shatterly of Monessen today in discussing last night's raids by the police force. Such places will not be tolerated in the boro limits and the police have orders from the chief executive to raid every house against which evidence can be secured. Burgess Shatterly has not only refused to license such places but he has likewise refused to be blind to their existence and tolerate them under the plea of ignorance of their presence.

He wants them ferreted out and the police know it. He intends to see that the police act on that knowledge. "Let those who know no better criticise as they will for the existence of disorderly houses outside of the boro limits" said the burgess in conclusion. "In those cases I have no jurisdiction. In the other cases I have and I propose to see that the town is kept clean."

Last night two alleged disorderly houses conducted by colored people, were raided, one on Rostraver street and one on Park Way. Seven men and three women were arrested and they will be given hearings this evening.—Monessen Independent.

LOCK SCHOOLS PICNIC AT ELDORA PARK

North Charleroi, Sept. 21.—On last Thursday, the schools were given a day's outing at Eldora park. All necessary arrangement for a good time at the park, had been previously made by Tom P. Sloan, manager of Eldora park, so at 9:30 prompt, the schools, numbering some 200 pupils, together with well laden lunch baskets, were assembled at Lock View station, and were conveyed in two special cars to the picnic grounds. The day was ideal for a good time and no pains was spared by the park management, to make the day a continuous round of pleasure for the boys and girls. Just before lunch time, the merry party was joined by half as many patrons and friends of the schools, and at the noon hour, the picnicers grouped themselves about the well-filled baskets and very much enjoyed the repast in the woods.

Not the slightest accident occured to mar the day's pleasure. In the early evening the cars returned to take the children home. Three cheers for the fellow-townsmen, Tom P. Sloan, were given and all voted the day a pleasure long to be remembered.

Council Decides To Pave Block On Lincoln Avenue

Called Meeting Last Night And Business Of Interest Transacted --Final Estimate Is Accepted.

A called meeting of council was held last night and a few matters of interest taken up. Among these was that of paving Lincoln avenue from First street to Second street, thus connectingup the paving work of Washington avenue at second street with that of Lincoln avenue at First street. This business was talked over to some extent before a motion was made to have an ordinance prepared, and the contract let, but the move was unanimous, the matter being left in the hands of the ordnance committee. This piece of work is one much needed, to complete the section of unpaved street between the brick-work on Washington avenue which ends at Second street, and Lincoln avenue extension. When the paving is completed, if everything goes through without a hitch, it will make Washington avenue one of the most beautiful of the town.

The final estimate of the paving of Lincoln avenue, from First street to Lincoln avenue extension was read and on motion accepted. The total amount was $2,650.87. A warrant for the sum of $1,899.10, the amount due the contractors was ordered drawn of the treasurer. Hastings, Piper and Owens were the contractors on this piece of work and did a very nice job. It was only very recently finished.

COURT GRANTS LICENSE TRANSFER

Hearing Yesterday In Case Of Central Hotel.

Before Judge McIlvaine was heard yesterday morning the application of Edward Haley, for transfer of his liquor license as the Central hotel, of Roscoe to William Coulson, of Donora. There was no opposition presented to the transfer and the court took the matter under advisement and will announce a decision later.

It will be remembered that Mr. Haley applied for a transfer recently and was refused by the court, it having been shown at the hearing that the sale of the property depended upon Mr. Haley being successful in having the license transferred to Mr. Coulson. This fact having been brought out the transfer was refused.

The Haley place then went into the hands of the sheriff and was closed up. Later the sale of the property to Mr. Coulson was arranged and the hotel was reopened. The deed for the transfer was put on record last week the consideration being $37,500.

Hearing Of Myers Of Donora Hotel

A hearing was held on the petition of Henry Meyer for the transfer of the license of Hotel Donora to his son, Frank H. Meyer. The transfer was granted.

At the last license court the license was granted in the name of Henry Meyer and Frank H. Meyer. The father states in his petition that he has sold his interest to his son and withdrawn from the firm, with the intention of leaving Washington county.

MINING COAL AT MARIANNA

Excellent progress is being made at the new shaft at Marianna and between 400 and 500 tons of coal are being mined daily from the new workings. This week this output will be increased to over 500 tons. At the present time 30 entries are being driven, and next this number will be increased to 36.

Twelve of the brick houses now in course of construction will be completed within four weeks, which will permit the company to give increased accommodations to their officials.

Notice.

All goods left at my place over sixty days will be sold for charges if not called for in ten days from date.

MACHINE WILL MINE AND DIG

Invention Will Be a Big Factor In Mining Operations.

With a machine that can dig and load a ton of coal a minute the coal mining industry of the world seems about to be revolutionized by the invention of a Pittsburg man, H. A. Kuhn, president of the Pittsburg and Westmoreland Coal company and allied corporations, which own and are operating a 280,000-acre tract in Westmoreland and Washington counties.

Some idea of what this means can be determined by companies with the fact that an individual miner, with the best methods hitherto in use, can turn out only from six to 10 tons a day. The cost of mining also is greatly reduced by the new machine. Another very important feature is that it does away with the use of explosives.

Although this machine has been in use in the Shoenberger mine of the company, three miles below Monongahela City, for the past six months, it has been inspected by only about 10 persons outside of the inventor and those operating it. By the new method a large percentage of the operatives will be mechanical engineers.

Operated Upon For Blood Poisoning

Emory Bunkle, the seven year old son of E. J. Bunkle of Monessen was operated upon for a serious case of blood poisoning yesterday. The lad contracted the disease through his desire to see the prize fight in the opera house here about two weeks ago. He climbed to a window sill and was creeping along toward an eye hole when his leg was caught by a piece of broken glass and a deep gash cut. This rapidly developed into blood poison.

Ed. C. Drum Disposes Of Business To Beallsville Man.

TRANSFERRED YESTERDAY TRANSFERRED YESTERDAY

Yesterday the pioneer real estate agency of Charleroi changed hands when Charles R. True, a prominent Beallsville man took charge of the business of Ed C. Drum, on Fallowfield avenue, the transaction having been closed recently. The consideration is not given.

The agency is the first ever located in this place although it has passed through a number of person's hands. The men who started the agency were Clark and McKean. It passed into the hands of A. C. McKean who held it for several years, finally disposing of the business to McCloskey and Company who in turn sold it to Mr. Drum.

Mr. True is a business man of experience, having been in the Mercantile business at Beallsville for several years. He will make few changes.

A man may be fifty-seven varieties of fool over a girl and still be able to transact business.

Tan, just tan, seems to have great popularity as a bathing costume.

It has got so that you can't even pour oil upon the troubled water without paying tribute to John D.

It is queer, but people who are always wanting to be the whole thing are never willing to half try.

It is sometimes hard to differentiate between superstition and religion except in your own case.

The Great White Way is overcast with a Thespian gloom. It looks as if some of the actors will have to chop wood this winter.

Now that fainting is becoming the style again, beware of the girl that glances hastily over her shoulder to see if you are there before she does it.

Politeness may be carried to extremes, but it seldom does any serious damage.

It has been said that there are no baldheaded men in the asylums for the insane. We suspect this is true; at least, save for rare and unimportant exceptions. This an important thing for the anti-baldheads to speculate upon; it may well furnish them food for serious and earnest thought.

A Pittsburg man claims that it cost him $100,000 to get his wife. Doubtless the chef item of expense was getting rid of his other one.

The International Tuberculosis Conference which is about to meet at Philadelphia will be productive of much good, without doubt, but some of the tuberculosis editorials in the papers of the Quaker City are as bad as the disease.

Degeneracy in Boys.

There is certainly something wrong somewhere that so many boys of such [illegible] become criminals, daring and malicious. Charleroi has more than her share of boy desperadoes and we feel that someone is to blame. There is "toughs" and "toughs" in this town from the ages of 5 to 80 and over but the little fellows in deeds of malicious mischief and criminal acts completely eclipse their elder brothers. We are sorry enough to see degeneracy in either the man, youth, or wee chap but a great deal more grieved to notice the latter going beyond what members of the former two classes dare.

What is the cause of the unusual conditions existant here among so many of the young lads? Does it lie with the parents? Have the boys had the proper training? We suspect not, for surely if a boy is brought up properly he will not disobey his parents wishes and not deteriorate to the extent that some of the toddlers of Charleroi have.

The police and the local board of the Juvenile court cannot work very well towards stopping the work of the youngsters, for the ones who suffer hesitate as a general rule to appear against them, or take any action whatever concerning the matter. The parents also to keep their names out of the paper and with an idea of saving further trouble, oftentimes defend their degenerate offsprings by paying for all the damages which they do, and dismissing the matter from their thoughts, instead of using the old fashioned method of a stiff soled slipper, or strong hickory stick.

People Complain.

Complaint comes from Ninth and Tenth streets of hoodlums of that district disturbing the peace of residents day and night. It is said that boys of various ages keep the streets and alleys resounding with noise as they play games, using explosive epithets filthy in character, cursing one another in loud voices so that the good people of that neighborhood are shocked and incensed beyond degree. Sunday night on Long Alley, between Ninth and Tenth streets and along McKean and Fallowfield avenues it is said gangs of hoodlums throughout most of the night made things hideous, and rendered sleep for the residents well nigh impossible, by their noise and cursings as they abused one another. The people of Ninth and Tenth streets and on McKean and Fallowfield avenues between these places desire the police to investigate the matter and have the practice of the youngsters stopped.

An exchange reports that bankers and bank officials are opposed to the Democratic guarantee plank. So are the majority of other people, but the bank officials who favors it, would be advertising that he and his institution are to be trusted, and the man who is afraid to trust himself, has no right to ask other people to trust him with their money.

To Protect Property From Fires.

High officials of railroads in the Pittsburg district, that are experiencing difficulty on account of water shortage, are holding a series of meetings to arrange some plan where by the repair shops and locomotives can be kept in operation. In some cases it has been necessary to close repair shops entirely. The situation in the district is serious and railroad officials say that unless relief comes soon additional plants will be closed.

At the first meeting to discuss this matter it was decided to send special watchmen out along various roads to give warning in case fire breaks out. On account of the numerous forest fires that have been reported during the past few weeks the railroads are taking every precaution to prevent fires along their lines. The watchmen are to be stationed but a short distance apart and are instructed to notify the division superintendent in case of fire on the company's property or along the right of way.

Orders have been sent out by the Pennsylvania to see that the fire-fighting locomotives are equipped with all kinds of apparatus and the trainmen, who have been organized into companies, are drilled daily. To prevent heavy damage to the company's shops and terminal buildings in case of fire additional engines have been equipped with fire-fighting apparatus.

To Start Work Soon On New School Building

At a meeting of the school board of Monongahela last evening it was decided to let the contract for the foundation of the new Third ward school building immediately. The building will be a modern 12-room structure and will cost $52,000 when finished. As soon as the foundation is completed the contract for the building will be let and it will be pushed to a rapid completion as it is urgently needed. There are at present 1,302 pupils in school here and all of the rooms are crowded. Steps will be taken at once to procure another room for the primary pupils of the First and Second grades.

SPECIAL FEATURES AT STAR THIS WEEK

The program at the Star theatre is an exceptionally strong one. The act of Alvin and Knox, is a scream and to see it is to laugh. It is an amicable change from the ordinary acts offered in vaudeville.

Alvin's comedy is of the clean, long buble kind and he is ably assisted by Miss Knox, whose special costume and her clever acting, singing adds decidedly to the act. They make a clever, well balanced team and one well worth seeing. They present an entirely new song tonight entitled "Baby Doll." it is catchy and tuneful and sure to make a hit.

The act of Orville the premier equilibrist is one that is decidedly clever, he introduces novelty foot balancing that has never been seen here before.

The illustrated song and moving pictures are as usual, good.

Fires Over 100,000 Acres.

Harrisburg, Sept. 21.—Reports to the State forestry department show that fires are raging over 100,000 acres of forest land in Clinton, Center, Union, Clearfield, Snyder, Lycoming, Mifflin, Tioga, Potter, Pike, Monroe and Schuylkill counties.

Fifteen thousand acres of State forest reserves have been burned. The State has 110 forest rangers and wardens at work, and local constables have drafted citizens into service as fire fighters, about 1,200 men in all being employed. The State police are searching for persons guilty of starting fires, and the department will offer rewards for information.

Thus far there have been no fires in the Mont Alto forest reserve or the big State nurseries in Bedford county. Rangers are patrolling the reserves in many places and allowing no one to enter.

The teachers, with few excepticns, are greatly in earnest in their work. While there are features to be commended, there is some lack in the proper manner of imparting instructior, and also need more energy on the part of the teacher.

Monongahela, Sept. 21.—"Fluff," the little French poodle dog belonging to Mrs. Nettie Strouse, was attacked by a Great Dane, belonging to Prof. Grundhoefer, on Sunday, and badly injured. The little dog was in the Strouse yard in Main street, and Prof. Grundhoefer was walking along the street with his large dog. The big animal attacked the little pup and before it let go it had inflicted several large gashes. It is not thought the dog will die.

Monongahela, Sept. 21.—John Burbra had one leg amputated at the Memorial hospital today as a result of the member being fearfully crushed when Burbra was caught beneath a fall of slate in the Marianna mine.

A Popular Song of Today.

In the "Country Club," Jesse L. Lasky's unique vaudeville producton is now appearing in Greater New York, there is a song by George Spink that is making so great a hit that The New York Sunday World has secured the right to give it to its readers next Sunday. Words and music complete. George Spink, it will be remembered, wrote "Bill Simmons," one of the most popular of light songs. The song to be given with the next Sunday World is up to Mr. Spink's best work.

Heavy Rains in South.

Heavy rains continue to fall in the southern states, but none of the precipitation seems to be able to reach this northern latitude. In Galveston, Tex., last week 10 inches of rain fell in 36 hours. If we only had some of that in this valley it would help some.

SKIN TORTURES

Thousands of wretched people are miserable—driven almost mad by the terrible itching and burning sensation of Eczema and other skin diseases; many imagine they are suffering from bad blood, when as a matter of fact the blood has nothing to do with it. These awful tortures are caused by little germs that attack the skin externally, which can be rooted out in a hurry, leaving the skin clear, soft and healthy. Such misery now cleared away as surely as the sun shines above. Not merely attempted, not a matter of improvement merely, not a temporary relief—but a clearing of it all away absolutely and permanently.

THE D. D. D. PRESCRIPTION

a specific formula, put up in sealed bottles with authentic label, has proven to be the only certain cure for these diseases. Its record of cures is astonishing, amazing, almost miraculous. It is a liquid, used externally, non-greasy.

Cleansed within one month.

For a number of years my husband has been suffering with a terrible case of eczema. He had doctored with the best skin specialists in the city, but they could not even stop the itching. I was told by a friend of the D. D. D. treatment and began using it at once; the first few applications eased the itching, and in a month's time his flesh was as clear as could be.

Gregory's Fortune.

By Barry Preston.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

The candles in the thousands of Japanese lanterns which flooded the lawn with their soft light were burning low. Here and there one would sputter uncertainly and then go out, leaving a break in the long lines of various colored illumination.

The orchestra in its palm bordered pavilion played a final selection, after which the musicians put their instruments in the cases with businesslike finality. The crowd which an hour earlier had fairly swarmed the place was now thinning out to a few scattered groups. Already the gayly costumed young ladies at the various booths were beginning to put away their remaining wares, yawning openly as they wearily took account of stock and compared notes on the sales they had made.

The annual bazar for the Home For Incurables always came to just such a stereotyped, successful ending.

Quite apart from the other loiterers, on a rustic bench beneath a towering maple, Peter Gregory watched the proceedings about him the while he smoked a contemplative cigarette. He had done his duty nobly. He had taken the many booths in order, permitting himself to be swindled at each and making prodigal purchases of useless things, which he promptly gave away.

One booth only he had not visited, and that was the one with the amazingly small sign: "For $1, you could have your horoscope cast, your past read and your future foretold by "Mlle. Nazro, Most Noted Egyptian Seer, First Appearance In America." If one were to believe the lurid poster just outside of the flap of the Graham children's lawn tent.

Gregory glanced at the tent in question and walked somewhat faster at

"YOU HAVE A RIVAL," SAID SHE.

the cigarette, as if he were endeavoring to steel his nerves for an ordeal. For certain reasons he had waited to have his fortune told at the fortune teller should be quite alone. Even as he looked two stout, middle aged women, accompanied by a prosperous looking man, came laughingly out of the tent and made their way toward the street. Behind them Mlle. Nazro stood in the tent's entrance looking across the grounds.

Gregory threw the cigarette aside, got to his feet and took a long breath. Then he walked solemnly to the fortune teller's booth and removed his hat in a deferential salute.

"Am I too late to consult the future?" he asked.

The young woman before him smiled rather wearily, but with a certain well simulated professional welcome. She was a tall young woman, with a superb figure. Her blue eyes twinkled merrily. Her face was dyed an oriental tint with grease paint, and her lips were very red from the same reason. From beneath the dark wig that covered her head a single lock of blond hair strayed out rebelliously.

"You are rather late," she said, "but perhaps we can manage your future, or at least a part of it, before all the lights go out. Will you please come into the tent? Will you have it by the palm or the cards?" she asked as she seated herself before a small table gay with bright paper and tinsel.

"The cards, if you please. I think them much more reliable," said he gravely as he sat down opposite her.

She produced a deck of cards and pushed them toward him.

"Cut them, if you will," said she.

Gregory split the deck, and the girl turned the cards face up.

"Ah," she murmured as the deuce of hearts was displayed, "you are in love—very much in love."

"Admitted," said he quickly.

He looked at her with such concentration that her eyes fell, and in her flurry she dropped some of the cards. Gregory picked them up and returned them to the table.

For a moment she manipulated the deck; then she tossed on to the table the jack of diamonds.

"You have a rival," said she, "a big, light man. He is very rich." And she [illegible] jack.

"Right again," said Gregory. "Mlle. Nazro, your insight or the cards, whichever it is, is positively uncanny. Now tell me more about the lady, please. Does she favor me or my rival?"

There was more manipulating of the deck, more cutting by Gregory, and the girl looked keenly at a card in her hand.

"Which does she seem to favor?" Gregory asked, leaning forward.

"You," the girl said simply.

With a sudden, swift movement Gregory caught one of the girl's hands in his own, but she drew it away, not without a certain hauteur.

"This is only according to the cards, please remember," she said in a low voice.

"Oh!" said Gregory contritely. "Forgive me. I thought—that is, I hoped"—

"And according to the cards," said the girl hurriedly in a very evident effort to cover her embarrassment, "the lady whom you love is dark."

She pushed the queen of clubs toward him.

For a long time Gregory looked at her steadily. Then a hint of a smile curved the corners of his mouth.

"Of course this is all according to the cards," he suggested.

There was a long pause.

"Not wholly," the girl confessed, her face turned from him.

"To what, then, are we indebted for the rest of it?" he asked.

"Oh, to—to intuition and—and to insight."

Gregory laughed outright. It was a ringing, contagious laugh. He caught up the queen of clubs and sealed her far out on to the lawn.

"Exit the dark lady," he said. "There never was one. The girl I—the girl who is everything to me is not dark," he ended, looking meaningly at the one blond lock that crept from beneath the wig.

The girl arose in some confusion.

"I'm—I'm very much afraid I can't tell you any more at the present," said she. "I think we'd best consider this sitting ended."

"Oh, no, indeed," Gregory declared pleasantly. "There's a lot more to be settled yet. That rival, for instance—how about him? What shall we do with him?"

There was a long silence.

"We've got to do something about the rival," Gregory maintained.

The girl picked up the jack of diamonds and the ten spot with it.

"If it's not the dark lady," she said in a very low voice, "the rival doesn't count—neither he nor his riches."

She tore the two cards in pieces and tossed them from her. In an instant Gregory was on his feet.

"Violet!" he cried. "Violet, you mean"—

"It was the cards," she said feebly.

"It was not," he declared flatly, springing to her side.

A half hour later as Gregory was leaving the grounds he encountered Tom Briggs.

"Going to take the cat home, Peter?" the latter inquired, with a mystifying chuckle.

"Certainly," said Gregory. "What is there so funny about that?"

"Nothing," said Briggs, with another covert gurgle, "nothing whatever, only, Peter, as an old and trusted friend, I'd advise you to wash that bit of carmine paint off your chin before you go."

Value of an Automaton Face.

"When I first came to New York," confessed a girl art student, "I thought all the women had regular putty faces. It seemed to me I never saw such blank walls of expressionless faces. I would get into a street car and look about me and could not detect any sign that any one else knew I existed. Women looked right through me as if I were a pane of window glass. I soon found out, however, that an expressionless face is a woman's protection. It is not that New York women cannot look bright and interested; it is because they dare not show any friendliness in public. When I first came, being from a smaller city where every one knows every one else, I would get on a car in a lively manner, look about me, smile and study the people, just as I would do at home. I soon saw men returning my friendly looks with disagreeable stares. They naturally thought I was trying to start a flirtation. Several times I was followed as a penalty for my too interested manner, and I began to adopt the New York way. Now I go in many parts of the city acting as near like an automaton as I can, seeing no one, never expressing any interest or emotion in my face, and have learned the secret of going about this big city unmolested."—New York Times.

Poverty and Luxury.

Poverty and luxury—these are the diseases of our industrial regime, to the cure of which the Socialists offer their ineffectual remedy—ineffectual since the population of the United States is made up of 90,000,000 individuals, some of whom will be forever on the verge of bankruptcy, however great their income, and some frugal and always carrying their account on the right side of the balance sheet, however small their annual allotment of wealth.

Poverty and luxury are twin diseases sapping the life of society, the one destroying ambition by withholding sufficient nourishment to the body, the other rendering men worthless to society by a superabundance of the good things of life. Poverty is a disease not indigenous to our American soil. It is a plague brought in by immigrant ships from wornout Europe, and the patients are cured here by the thousands. So long as there remains an uncultivated acre of land anywhere in the Union there is no real cause for poverty nor any excuse for luxury

Captain Keller, of Co. A, has received orders governing the movement of his command for Philadelphia, but it is not known as yet the exact time of leaving. No doubt the company will leave Monongahela on Sunday morning, October 4, and return about Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

For the trip each man will be paid one dollar. This is something unusual as heretofore nothing was paid for such pleasure trips. The full dress blue uniforms will be worn, and it will mark the initial appearance of the officers in their new full dress uniforms of blue and gold. Much pleasure is anticipated by the members of the company, and considerable is being done in the vicinity of the armory toward preparing for the event.

It is thought all orders will be here and read to the men at the next drill on Friday evening.
